A golden rooster with long, flowing tail feathers is perched atop a sword that is planted in the ground. The rooster is facing right, with its wings slightly spread. The sword is a long, straight blade, and its hilt is visible. The background is a dark, smoky battlefield with several other swords planted in the ground. In the foreground, there are pieces of armor and a helmet, suggesting fallen soldiers. The lighting is dramatic, with the rooster and the sword being the main focus, illuminated by a warm, golden light. The overall mood is one of triumph and heraldry.
