Once upon a time
I had a life.

I had a normal, everyday reason for getting up and being me.

That day is long past.

Normal doesn't exist anymore.

This has been going on for days...

It hasn't been a year yet, but it feels like it's been 100.

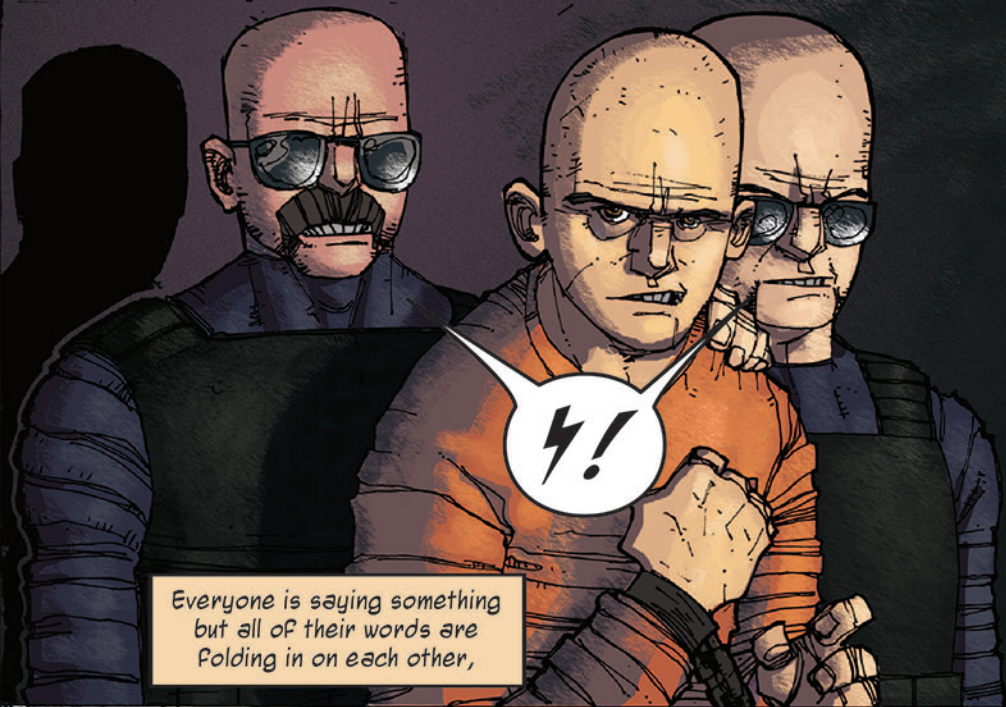

It feels like forever.

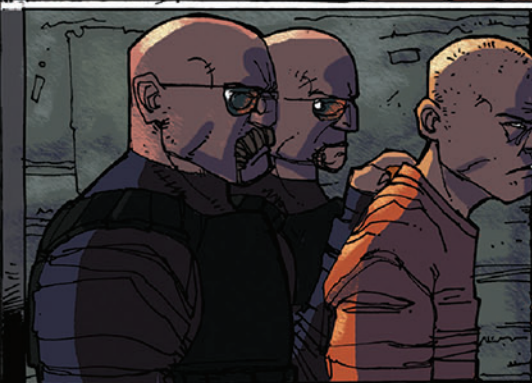

That's ok...

it'll be over soon.

Everyone is saying something but all of their words are folding in on each other,

They're laughing and screaming things that I can't make out.

The priest is saying something that I can't hear.

Warden Ames just wants me to die,

reminding me how much he hates me.

I didn't do anything wrong.

They'll never listen to me...

I'm not supposed to be here.

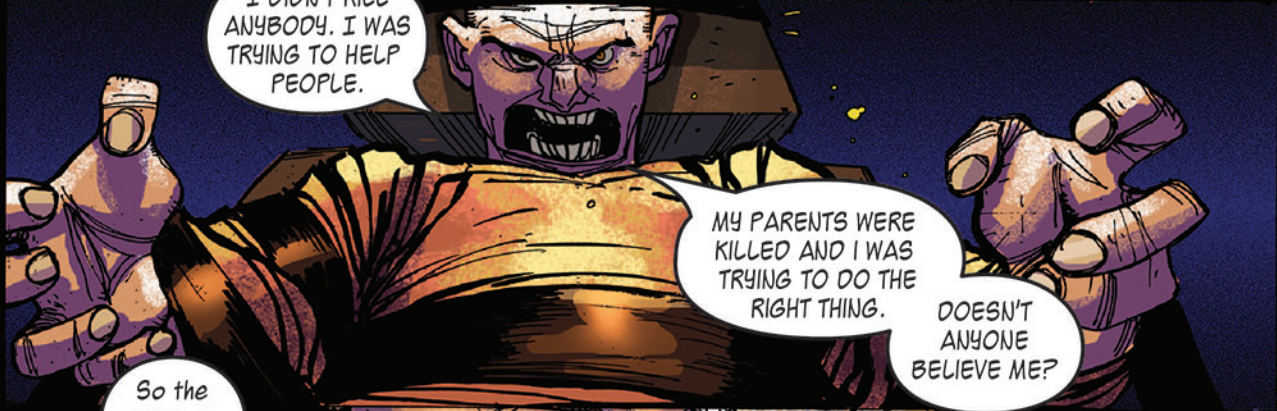

I didn't do anything. I didn't kill anybody. You have to believe me.

Your last words?

I DIDN'T KILL ANYBODY. I WAS TRYING TO HELP PEOPLE.

MY PARENTS WERE KILLED AND I WAS TRYING TO DO THE RIGHT THING.

DOESN'T ANYONE BELIEVE ME?

So the same as always?

I believe we're right about that time now.

We ready?

One thing goes through my head...

as the time...
